

Magic Article Rewriter

In recent times with the changes in the diminished link power being passed down by article directories and the search engines starting to lower link juice from individual articles submitted, other Web 2.0 sites have started to make an online presence.

It is now recognised that to proceed into the next era of article marketing that articles need to be submitted to niche or on topic relevant blogs.

It is by submitting unique content to niche relevant blogs that your articles will gain the most from backlinks and promotions from search engines. Blog owners are always looking for free non duplicate and unique articles to promote visitors to their sites and to also get the attention from search engines.

Enter the new era with Niche targeted blogs that are listed on one central site that automatically submits your articles, slowly, over a period of time to thirty right through to ten thousand niche related blog sites.

Now you do not want one article going to thirty or over one hundred blogs because as you know you will get a duplicate content penalty.

Article Marketing Begins Here

The internet is a large space containing hundreds of millions of websites and blogs. It is very hard to get noticed on the search engines unless you follow a tried and proven practice to get visitors to your site and recognition of your site in the search engines.

One proven practise is article marketing. This can best be explained as writing an article that you submit to an article directory. When your article is accepted to the article directory you will then have at least two solid backlinks to your site and exposure to visitors of that article directory.

It then stands to reason that the more articles you have on articles directories the more backlinks to your site and you will get article visitor traffic.

If you submit the same article to many article directories then the backlinks will loose power due to the competition of each article in the search engines, commonly referred to as duplicate content.

Writing hundreds of articles is very time consuming and a lot of people do not have the patience or time to write an article. Would it not be a better idea then to write one article and from that one article make many hundreds of variations that are unique and do not contain duplicate content?

This will then allow you to go to each article directory where you will submit one article that has been spun and then the next spun article to the next article directory and so on. This way each article directory will get a unique non duplicate content article that was spun from your original article.

With the page rank power of the article directories that you have submitted each unique article to, that article will get the most juice from page ranking of the directory as well as a good solid backlink.

I will guide you through using article spinning software that will spin one original article and turn that single article into many hundreds or just a few, totally unique and non duplicate content that is easy to read and makes sense to the human reader.

I will describe the basics of spinning an article by substituting words and then take it up a notch to spin anchor text and then finally, saving the best to last, spinning url's so that your article spinning efforts will target deep links in your site or sites.

Once you have read these simple techniques you will soon discover that article spinning software does in fact spin human readable and grammatically correct articles just as if you wrote each article yourself.

Basic Article Spinning Commands

Article spinning software actually reads the text looking for commands where the software is called upon to act. Common to all article spinning software programs are the commands of [spin] or {word}.

For the sake of convenience I will use the [spin] command throughout for ease but, if you use other software the same command is {word1~word2~word3} as opposed to [spin]word1|word2|word3[/spin]

Basically what you just read is all there is to it to rewrite an article. Just those commands. Lets start by describing the commands.

The command "[spin]" tells the software that you want it to start here. The command "[/spin]" tells the software you want it to stop here. Inside those two commands you write your words separated by the symbol "|".

So the command would like this:- [spin]word1|word2|word3|word4[/spin]. By separating each word with the symbol "|" you are asking the software that the words proceeding and following the symbol are the words you want the software to randomly choose.

Tip: the more words you use inside the commands means the more words the software can randomly select when it will re-write the sentence.

Example credit cards - [spin]credit cards|debit cards|bank cards[/spin]. The software will write "My credit cards are too high" or "My debit cards are too high" and finally, "My bank cards are too high".

So to write a sentence it will look like this:- My [spin]credit cards|debit cards|bank cards[/spin] are [spin]out of control|maxed out|costing me a fortune in fees[/spin].

The software then has all those variables to choose from in the first command and mix those variables with the words in the second command.

That is how you make articles unique when you spin them. Also, as you put your words in the commands you can then read those words to make sure they make sense when the software spins the article.

The reason why article rewriting software churns out garbled rubbish is because when writing your words in the commands that they do not flow and make sense. If as you go along you read each word out you will ensure the article will be grammatically correct when spun, everytime.

Spinning Anchor Text In URL'S

Now that you know the basics of article spinning you can do the same for anchor text. You will be using the same commands. It is easy to do, there is nothing to be concerned about here and there is no need to say, "Oh that's all too hard for me".

When you submit articles you have the option to submit them as html.

Take your article in the html version, using save as function to html or similar.

You will have your url to spin anchor text to look like this.

The link html code:- `[spin]word1|word2|word3|wordetc../spin] ` will reproduce your domain name with each variation of the word for your anchor text.

See, nothing to it. Use the same commands as you do to spin words just change your anchor text. Each time the article is spun you will have different anchor text so submit away and do not worry about having to change the text each time you submit to a directory.

Spinning URL's

This is just as easy as your normal spin commands. What we will do here is spin the url's in your spun articles so that when you submit the spun non-duplicate and unique content article, you will have already variations of the url for deep linking.

This is what it looks like:- [spin]<a
href="yourdomaindotinfo/deeplink/">[spin]word1|word2|word3|wordetc..[/spin]
href="yourdomaindotinfo/deeplink/">[spin]word1|word2|word3|wordetc..[/spin]
href="yourdomaindotinfo/deeplink/">[spin]word1|word2|word3|wordetc..[/spin]

Notice between each command at the [/spin] it is separated by the symbol "|" before the next [spin] command. We are telling the software to choose a different url each time the article is spun.

Tell Us Where Can We Find Those Sites

At the moment there is one site operated by a well respected online professional who charges $47.00 per month to be a member.

I want to provide a free service and one site that I personally use and have found great success using it.
